PURDUE MEN SLOW BUT GAME

Unable to Withstand Fast Rushes of Jimmie and the Team—Prexy Congratulates Men, and Rooters Parade

For the first time since 1899 we are in the championship race. The victory over Purdue last Saturday marks a new era in our athletic history. As yet we cannot predict that we will win from the strong teams of Michigan and Wisconsin, but at least we are in the race until we get put out. Never before, except in 1899, have we had a better foundation to build upon so early in the season than we have now. The team has gotten together as a team, and is now in line for rapid progress. It will be remembered that our greatest difficulty last year and the year before was just a lack of this. The places on the team were not determined until the season was over and even then it was hard to say which men were the regulars, which the substitutes, and what position any particular man played. In 1900 the team did not get together until Thanksgiving when we won that glorious game from Michigan.

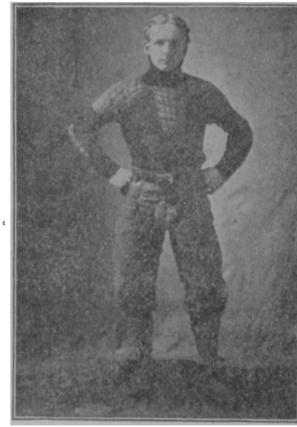

Even that game, although it closed a disastrous season with a blaze of glory, was hardly more gratifying than last Saturday's game, and although nothing could be sweeter than to defeat our old rival, Michigan, yet that was only a joy-giving potion at the end which served to leave a pleasant taste in our mouths. This, however, is different. It gives promise of a future.

Last season the team never did get together as a team on offense, although the men were all plucky fighters. Beginning at this very point, the Purdue game, our misfortunes began. The tie game with the men from Lafayette, which crippled and discouraged, and disorganized our men, was as critical then as now. Then, it began our downfall. Now it is the starting point, the first step in our development and progress towards the championship goal. The men having definite positions will be able to learn those positions thoroughly, and furthermore for the very same reason they will get used to playing together. Each man will know just what he is expected to do and just for what the man next to him can be depended. These two things are the essential elements of success. In these the '99 team excelled. At the very beginning of the season it was pretty definitely known what position each man was to play, hence the remarkable knowledge each man had of his position individually; and the knowledge the team men had of each other, the team work, the organization.

CONDITION OF MEN GOOD

In another point—the condition of the men—this team resembles the team of '99, a very vital thing in the success of the team. In 1900 and 1901 we had many cripples. Cripples can't play football. Then if the cripples are taken out of the game, it means that new men have to be put into their places, who have to learn the positions and get into touch with their team mates. This means delay, disorganization, and more than anything else keeps back the development. This difficulty is increased if the proper man for the position is not on hand. In that case there has to be a shakeup, and some men have to learn to play for positions of which they are totally ignorant. The fact that the men were in good condition, and that none of them was hurt during the season, proved to be one of the most potent factors for success in '99. This year again, up to the present time, the same good fortune is attending us.

CAPTAIN JAMES M. SHELDON

In the matter of substitutes we are better supplied than in '99. It would have been a very serious matter if one or two members of that famous team had met with accidents. Never before have we had such a large number of reserves of first-class caliber. This was brought out in Saturday's game. An almost new back-field was put in and the team was just as effective at gaining as before. We have at least six first-class full and half-backs. This should give us assurance, a sort of life-insurance policy against misfortune, and possible accidents.

SCHEDULE CLIMACTIC

The schedule is well calculated to bring the team forward step by step. It is not such a hard schedule as we had in 1900, and yet it is complete. We meet all of our greatest rivals, and the teams which this year promise to be the leaders in western football. As the season progresses the games grow harder. Next Saturday we play Northwestern. This should be a harder game than the one with Purdue. As yet, however, Northwestern has not been tested. It is pretty hard to say just what the Purple players can do. They have excellent material and good coaches, Dr. Hollister now being assisted by Johnson and G. Foster Sanford, the famous Columbia coach. Sanford has done great things before, and will put in every possible effort to do something this time. He is on record, and has bargained for success with the public. This, coupled with the fact that Northwestern as yet has not used the plays which are intended for the Chicago game and have been worked up in secret practice, and thus has not given us an opportunity to prepare a defense, should make them formidable. Furthermore, several of their best men are being saved for the Chicago game. The rivalry is intense. The last two years they defeated us: 5 to 0 in 1900; 6 to 5 in '99. The game should be a splendid one.

We must not count too much on our strength, because of the large score Saturday. There cannot be the slightest doubt but that Purdue's strength was greatly overestimated, and that they were slow. After the first five minutes of play we realized that the game

MRS. HITCHCOCK MEETS MEN

Opens Hitchcock Hall to Those Who Did the Manual Labor on the Dorm—Workmen Respond to Invitation and Bring Wives and Children.

Mrs. Hitchcock opened the magnificent library of the new Hitchcock Hall to the men who had done the manual labor on the building, last Saturday afternoon, when the men occupying rooms in the hall were at the football game. Every man was invited to come and bring his family. All responded, either by an appreciative letter or in person.

The men, their wives and children were received in the library, where refreshments were served. They were shown the rare books which Mr. Hitchcock had gathered from every source, the rooms in this model dormitory, its model appointments, and all the other interesting things about it. A room overlooking Marshall field was opened so that those who desired to watch the football game might do so.

When a number of the men chanced to be in the library Mrs. Hitchcock informally addressed them in a most touching manner. She told them it had been her original intention to give a scholarship to the University in her husband's memory, but that this idea later gave way to a plan to give a room, probably a library, filled with things which her husband had valued highly. This idea in turn gave way to the conception of a model college hall for men.

With Hitchcock Hall she said she was more than pleased. She wanted to give something, to do something, that should commemorate her husband's name, and in this hall she felt that she had realized her ambition. Most delicately and tellingly she then made every man feel that it was due to his efforts that the hall had been made possible.

SAFE ON BOARD THE SHERMAN

Albert J. Hopkins Telegraphs His Father that He Arrived in San Francisco on the Transport

Albert J. Hopkins, whose whereabouts were unknown on account of the fact that his name was not included in the list of passengers on board the cholera-stricken transport Sherman, has telegraphed his father, Congressman Hopkins, that he arrived in San Francisco on that boat in company with Harry P. Raymond, Jr., with whom he started on a trip around the world. Although there were several cases of cholera on the Sherman and several people died, he reports that he and Raymond are well but will be unable to get out of quarantine for a few days.

GOLF TOURNAMENT FOR THE WOMEN

Contests to be Held the Last of the Month on Auburn Park Links

All the women of the University are requested to watch the bulletin board in front of Cobb Hall and at the Gymnasium office for particulars in regard to the first annual women's golf tournament to be held on the Auburn Park golf links the last Thursday and Friday in October, and the first Monday and Tuesday in November. The Auburn Park Club has very kindly offered the use of its grounds for this tournament, and it is desired that all who can play the game enter. If sufficient interest is manifested it is expected that in the spring an instructor will be secured and the work offered as one of the regular branches of the department.

No prize is to be offered for this fall contest. All those who wish to compete must register at once.

SEGREGATION DEPICTED

Women at Freshman Frolic Entertained by a Play

Scene, Foster Hall Ten Years after Separate Instruction Inaugurated

The Freshmen frolic given under the auspices of the Woman Student's Christian League was held in Nancy Foster Hall on Saturday night, and was largely attended by all the women of the University. Those in the receiving line were Mrs. Myra Reynolds, Miss Wallace, Miss Narcissa Cox and Miss Isabella Webster.

One end of the red hall was fitted up as a stage, and after some time had been spent in getting acquainted the girls adjourned there for the play, which was a scene in Foster Hall ten years after segregation had gone into effect. The plot of the play, as well as the local hits, met with enthusiastic applause from those who "saw their own rights wavering in the air." The announcement that there was a man within the Woman's Quadrangle caused intense excitement and was construed by Miss Randall, head of the hall, an eternal disgrace to Foster. Perhaps the greater ability was shown by Miss Agnes Weyman, who took the part of a Foster maid, and to whose lot it fell to assist the girls out of all their troubles and to buy for them candy and such luxuries on her off-day. Miss Rodi, as the French instructor, showed a marked genius for mixing up her beloved French and English in her conversation. The others who took part in the play were Miss Edith Wiles and Miss Gertrude Carroll, two student residents of Foster, Miss Lorena King as Miss Randall, Miss Viola Sutton, an over-anxious mother, and Miss Calhoun's dog, the cause of all the trouble. The play was adapted from a story in Harper's.

Later the girls marched through the halls singing college songs, and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

TELEPHONE THE DAILY MAROON

The Paper Now Has a 'Phone—Number Oakland 426, 35 University Exchange

THE DAILY MAROON can now be directly reached by telephone. The number is Oakland 426, No. 35 on the University exchange. All friends of THE MAROON, whether in the University or in the city, are urged to communicate with the office when any news of any possible interest comes to them. News of especial importance will be received between 11 and 1 o'clock, and in case of startling news, information can be made use of even to the middle of the afternoon. It is to be hoped that all students will keep this telephone in mind and not hesitate to communicate with us when there is any possibility of their information being of interest.

THE DAILY MAROON will, about November 1st, publish in its columns a directory of the University telephones, including those of fraternities, clubs, professors' houses, etc. There are quite a number of telephones around the Campus, but as yet hardly an adequate number. It is to be hoped that at an early date many more will be added to the list in the U. of C. community, as there is no more possible time-saving device to be found. All persons connected with the University are urged to send in their telephone numbers, in order that the list may be made a complete one.

The passageway from the old gym. to Fifty-seventh street has been barred by a wall.

EDITORIALS

In behalf of the student-body, that group of men and women who are standing by the team, we express to the football Campaign men our most enthusiastic congratulations over their great work Saturday. To both the "General Grant of American football," our old man, and to the men on the firing line, Captain "Jimmie," the veterans, and the recruits, we say we are proud of you, and that you deserve and will receive our unending loyalty and devotion.

With the crushing defeat for Purdue, Vicksburg has fallen, and now, carrying out the plans of our general, the men must "fight it out on this line if it takes all autumn." The cry now is not "On to Richmond," it is "On to the Championship."

But this campaign will take us into "the wilderness." There, "Hurry-Up" Yost must find his Spottsylvania. Then finally on Thanksgiving day, for the surrender of the Wisconsin football general, King, we must make Marshall field an Appomattox.

Such a hope is not merely vain optimism. There are reasons for a belief in its realization. The men have already shown that they are filled with Chicago pluck. It is the same kind of pluck which Chicago men have shown during the period which compares to the depression in the Peninsular campaign before the march to Richmond. The work of our men for two years has been a plucky stand to prevent the disintegration of our forces. Now this year they may be counted on to make a plucky uphill fight for the greatest football victory. And the skill of the campaign planner is unquestioned.

We must not become vainly over-confident, because, on last Saturday, although we were strong our foe was weak. And we must not underestimate the task. It is Herculean. But Chicago men—coach, players, and rooters, as well as faculty—are strong in determination and feeling, and will stand together in a struggle toward winning the very first place.

The Freshman Frolic, given to the girls of the entering class last Saturday evening at Foster Hall is a significant index of the growth of University of Chicago spirit among the women. Parties of this kind, which bring all the students into close relations, cannot be too highly commended. The tendency in a large institution is to form exclusive cliques, which has a fatal effect on college spirit unless offset by consistent efforts to foster a broader feeling. Young people are prone to view a very narrow horizon, and just such assemblies as that of last Saturday are needed among both the men and the women to educate them to a broader fellowship.

It was an advantageous thing to have this frolic thus early in the year, in order to let the new students see that university life does have pleasures to offset the grinding necessary for class work. The value of general student assemblies can hardly be estimated, and the tendency to broad and liberal community of interest should receive the hearty encouragement of every member of the University.

FRESHMEN GIRLS WILL SING

One of Their Number Calls on the Class to Support a Glee Club

Of course everybody in the class of '06 wants to do her share in making her class approach perfection. Now here is your chance. One of the essentials of a good class is class spirit. Last year their was not enough enthusiasm to support a girls' glee club. We certainly don't want that to be said of us. We freshman girls are going to get up a glee club of our own, and we want to make it the best the University has ever had. All you girls are, therefore, asked to watch the bulletin board for the calling of a meeting to consider this matter. Be sure to be there, and bring all the other freshman girls, whether they sing or not, showing thereby that you want a glee club, whether you are in it or not. Every girl in the class of '06 should feel a personal responsibility in this case.

ONE OF THE FRESHMAN GIRLS.

Don't waste time reading the bulletin boards. Read the notice column in THE DAILY MAROON.

RUSH MEDIC NOTES

Northwestern..... Rush.....
This is the story of the first game of the season, a record which Rush has no reason to be ashamed of and Northwestern little cause to be elated over. While the purple eleven was rather slow and lacked ginger, their team work was good. Rush was strong on individual playing. Our line was probably a trifle the heavier, but our men were much softer, and this, together with the warm afternoon, told heavily against the orange and black.

Notwithstanding, the game was one of the best exhibitions of line-bucking seen on Sheppard field in many a day, both teams failed to make any sensational runs, the gains being made almost without exception, by straight, hard football.

For Northwestern Fleager played the star game, carrying the ball through the Medic line for most of their gains, scoring the two touchdowns, and making their single goal.

While every man on our team played his position well, Doudonville, Laird and Erwin were the stars.

A delegation of about twenty five rooters accompanied the team to Evanston Saturday. Just before the game was called Drs. Tobin, Nicholson and Schwendener appeared on the field to root for their old team. They are old Rush men who played on the famous team of '99, which defeated Northwestern by a score of 6-0.

Hull Court

The '05 medics completed the election of their officers Friday. Class songs and yells lent enthusiasm to the meeting, which was largely attended.

Besides the elections various matters of interest were discussed and passed upon by the class. The most important was the proposal to raise a fund for the benefit of students who may be confined in the hospitals. The president was instructed to appoint a committee to investigate the matter.

The results of the elections follow:

Councillors: Messrs. Swingle, Scott and Brown.

Social Committee: Messrs. Oliver, Fitzhenry, Brown, and Misses Little and Stacy.

Reporting Committee: Messrs. Fitzhenry, Goheen and Willard.

Athletic Committee: Messrs. Beaton, Oliver and McKenna.

C. M. McKenna, '05, represented the Hull Court medics at right guard in the Northwestern game Saturday.

J. G. McNab, a noted player on the Maroon team last year, has discontinued the study of medicine for the present. He is taking charge of his father's business.

Dr. Adolf Lorenz, the famous Vienna surgeon, is in the city, and on Friday morning at Cook County Hospital he will give a clinic free to all medical students.

Dr. Haines, of the Rush faculty, is now giving a course of lectures at the University on toxicology. Yesterday his lecture dealt on elixirs. He said they were known as household remedies. The doctor then asked what a man would take who had a scolding wife. No one venturing an answer, he said: "Why, he takes an-e-liz er."

Punts From the Bleachers

was won. That march down the field from our five-yard line to a touchdown filled our hearts with joy. It was the turning point of the season. As Professor Thatcher urged, they played football from the kickoff, and it was real football. We went to yell "hold 'em," though we expected to win, but in a very few minutes we saw that "Chicago, Chicago, Chicago go, Go-Chica, Go-Chica, Go-Chicago," was the proper yell. The ease with which we won was something of a surprise. In spite of the weakness of Purdue, however, the Varsity football of the Maroons was apparent. The team deserves great credit for the game.

The greatest surprise to everyone was the remarkable progress of the team in the two days between the Cornell game and the game Saturday. Stagg even did not fully realize what had been done. Friday evening he said the plays were not yet in good shape. They were in better shape than he thought, but he says even now that there is considerable room for improvement in getting them perfected. Stagg attributed our success to the spirit of the team. Every man got into every play and played it to the limit. The Maroons are fighters. The poor showing against Cornell and the severe criticism which it brought, coupled with the mass meeting pledging student support, made them feel their responsibility to the University and helped make them put forth their best efforts. A large part of the credit must be given to Stagg. In two days he got the men together and taught the men some excellent, new, and deceptive plays.

Several faults have been corrected. It was noticeable in the game that there was improvement in catching punts. Sheldon and Schnur did excellent work. Another change was in the generalship. Heretofore Lee Maxwell, the quarter-back, took upon himself the greater share of the responsibility. He not only chose and gave the signals for the plays, but also saw that the men were in the proper positions. This was too much work for one man. There is now a division of labor. Captain Sheldon takes care of the men, sees that they are rightly placed, and also makes it his duty to encourage the men and comment on the plays, their merits or demerits. Saturday many of the men did this, and it cannot help but have a beneficial effect on the team. It often corrects errors on the spot which otherwise would not be corrected until the half is over.

Lee Maxwell in the game Saturday handled the team admirably, using good judgment in selecting plays and playing a faultless game at quarter. He also got into the interference well and twice when Jimmie broke away for a run for a touchdown he defended him well. Everyone of the men did well. Koehler and Farr played remarkable games; R. Maxwell and Ahlsweide opened up big holes in the line, and Ellsworth played his usual good game. Catlin and Speik did all that could be asked at ends. Their tackling was an improvement on former games. Perkins was fast and Bezdek did some star work. Jennison made some excellent gains.

Between the halves, when the score stood 16 to 0 in favor of Chicago, everyone knew that the game was won. The band marched out on the field, and, accompanied by a large number of rooters, made the circuit of the gridiron. The band played "A Hot Time," and the rooters sang and rooted and did the serpentine in a most gratifying sight. One suggestion was made for next time. A better showing would be made if the men stretched out in a long line, each man placing his hands on the shoulders of the man in front of him, instead of forming a crowd.

At the same time President Harper came out on the field and said "good work, boys," and asked if anyone was hurt. After listening to Stagg speak a few moments, he left the field. Nine rabs were then given for Prexy.

At the close of the game, after nine rabs had been given for Purdue, the crowd swarmed out on the field and carried Stagg and Captain Sheldon, to the gym, on their shoulders. Here we had our usual demonstration after a victory. A large crowd gathered, and amid Chicago yells, nine rabs were given for Stagg, Captain Sheldon, and every member of the team.

Exactly at 3:41 Ellsworth kicked off to Miller on the latter's 15-yard line. Miller returned the ball ten yards. On the next play he lost four yards, and Krull punted to Sheldon on Chicago's 40-yard line. The ball took an irregular bound after striking the ground, and Jimmie was nailed before he could get started. Perkins fumbled and Purdue got the ball. Chicago's line held like the good old line of '99, and Krull was forced to punt again. A fake punt neatly executed by Ellsworth and Schnur, straight bucks by Catlin and Ahlsweide, and an occasional end run by Jimmie, brought the pigskin steadily down the field, and gave the coaches and students the first intimation that the team was really turning into form. The bleacherites went wild when Perkins wen over for the first touchdown. After this our men played with greater confidence, and at a result more spiritedly. It was easy picking for our backs. Schnur went 30, Ahlsweide, 10, Ellsworth punted 35, and Chicago soon got the ball again on Purdue's 40-yard line. Straight bucks put the ball over in less than two minutes. After a series of exchanges of punts and fumbles Sheldon sped around right end for a 62-yard run for touchdown. In less than three minutes after the second half started Sheldon ran 60 yards for the fourth touchdown on a double pass. Purdue weakened so perceptibly here that Bezdek was sent against the line. He shot through with little opposition, and scored the fifth touchdown on a 60-yard run. The last five minutes of play was a punting contest. Bezdek went over again, and soon after the game was called on account of darkness. Six minutes remained, and it is very likely that we would have scored once or twice again.

On Marshall Field, before the Purdue game Saturday, the second division of the scrubs was beaten by Morgan Park Academy by the score of 10 to 5. The game was characterized by a great deal of fumbling and the scrubs displayed greenness. The scrubs made their touchdown on their own kickoff, as the ball struck a Morgan Park player and was picked up by Hatfield, who carried it for a touchdown. Morgan Park outplayed the scrubs on every point, and Newburn, their colored tackle, made both their touchdowns after long runs.

On Saturday the Scrubs buried Racine College by the score of 23-0. Linton and Tripp played the best game for the Scrubs, and Roddick was the Racine star. The latter has the interscholastic record for Wisconsin in the 100 yards, making the distance in 10 flat. It is reported that he has promised to come to the U. of C. in the near future. C. H. Hughes, of the Scrubs, kicked a most difficult goal against the wind, and off the sideline. The Scrubs outweighed their opponents.

ACADEMY ITEMS

A second football team will be organized this afternoon at the South Side Academy.

A committee of five has been appointed at the S. S. A. to solicit subscriptions toward the football fund. The committee is composed of Porter Smith, chairman; Russell Crane, Max Rohde, Miss Hall, and Miss Rankin. As $200 is needed each student is expected to contribute at least one dollar.

Henry W. Stiness entertained a few members of the Sigma Club at the D. K. E. House Sunday evening.

Invitations are out for the reception to be held Saturday under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and the Women Students' Christian League. A pleasant time is expected. Over 2,500 invitations have been sent out.
